

August is a month of balance—between dedication and celebration, learning and joy. It marks a time to channel hard work into meaningful outcomes while also embracing the togetherness that festivals and shared moments bring. As Mahatma Gandhi once said, “The future depends on what you do today.” August calls us to stay rooted in consistent effort while cherishing the bonds that make the journey worthwhile.

With the initiatives of the Allyn Girls Committee, August highlights how growth is not only personal but also collective. Every achievement, every role, and every story adds to a larger vision of empowerment and progress. In the spirit of unity, we are reminded of Helen Keller’s words: “Alone we can do so little; together we can do so much.” August inspires us to move ahead with purpose, dedication, and shared strength.

Kanchan Kumari dedicated much of her time to preparing for her upcoming exams, balancing her academic responsibilities with the festive celebrations of Ganpati. Amidst the joy of spending quality moments with her friends and family during the festival, she also took the opportunity to step out, explore the real world, and gather fresh ideas and experiences. The vibrant atmosphere, combined with the warmth of the people around her, made the end of August truly memorable and filled with happiness.

Kanchan Kumari
TE IT

Alvina Parmar
TE CSE

Alvina Parmar was delighted to score 20/20 in all five IAT papers, crediting her dedicated preparation. She also made significant progress on her project SignSense, which now successfully detects sign language words and converts them to text or audio. Adding to the joy, she enjoyed the Ganpati vacation with family, relaxation, and fun, making the period a perfect balance of learning and memorable moments.

Piyusha Nandivadekar actively participated in various events and celebrations, including Independence Day and Janmashtami, where her mandal performed Dahi Handi. She also prepared for her IAT-01 exams, visited friends for Ganpati Darshan, and worked on her mini-project. Additionally, she successfully completed her NPTEL course, making the period both productive and memorable.

Piyusha Nandivadekar
TE COMPS

Anjali Walekar
TE CSE

Anjali Walekar experienced August as a blend of focus and celebration. While preparing for her IAT exams with friends, she also enjoyed celebrating her best friend's birthday over a memorable lunch. At home, she and her family welcomed Ganpati Bappa with heartfelt decorations, making the period filled with joy, bonding, and blessings.

August was a fulfilling month where she balanced personal moments, creative activities, and leadership roles. She enjoyed reading The Illusion of Palace, spending time with friends at the Jio World Centre, and celebrating Rakhi with family. Professionally, she took part in the IET-XIE Mumbai Local Network photoshoot, assisted in the committee selection process, and contributed to publicity for Allyn Girls while helping select new Core Council Secretaries. The month beautifully blended joy, community involvement, and leadership growth.

Bhanavi Pandey
BE CSE

Disha Gupta
TE CSE

Disha Gupta's August was marked by both academic focus and memorable milestones. She prepared for her Internal Assessment, celebrated her 20th birthday with friends, and enjoyed Ganesh Chaturthi with family. She was selected as Informals Admin in the Cultural Committee and also achieved a proud milestone by being appointed Chairperson of the Cybersecurity Cell, embracing both responsibility and excitement.

In the latter half of August, Allison Maegan Suvarna balanced academics, extracurriculars, and personal moments. She completed online courses, reconnected with her hobby of crocheting, and enjoyed meeting childhood friends. On the academic side, she cleared her IATs with improved scores, while also taking on the role of Graphics Admin in the Cultural Team. Despite facing a personal loss, she continues to move forward with positivity, cherishing fond memories.

Allison Maegan Suvarna
TE CSE

Shravni Bandodkar
TE COMPS

For Shravni Bandodkar, the latter half of August was both productive and memorable. She focused on preparing for her IAT exams, putting in consistent effort and achieving satisfactory results. Afterward, she celebrated Ganesh Chaturthi at her native place, cherishing the rituals, family bonding, and festive joy. The period brought her a meaningful balance of academic dedication and cultural celebration.

The latter half of August was a time of learning and progress for Cecilia Dinesh. She explored UI/UX concepts, practiced Figma designing, and strengthened her academic preparation for Internal Assessment 2, achieving good results. With placements approaching, she also began active preparation, making the phase both productive and motivating.

Cecilia Dinesh
BE-COMPS

Harshitha Nakka
TE IT

The second half of August was a period of growth and learning for Harshitha Nakka. She prepared consistently for Internal Assessment 1 and successfully completed the IBM AI Builder course, gaining practical insights into AI. She was also selected as Joint Informals Admin in the Cultural Committee, giving her an opportunity to contribute creatively. The phase was a fulfilling blend of academics, skill-building, and exciting opportunities.

The latter half of August was a balance of focus and celebration for Anushree Verma. She prepared well for her IAT exams, maintained her LeetCode streak, and earned the IBM SkillsBuild Project-Based Learning Program 2025 certificate, "From Learner to Builder: Become an AI Agent Architect." Alongside academics, she enjoyed celebrating her friend's birthday with close friends and welcomed Ganesh Chaturthi with family and festivities.

Anushree Verma
TE CSE

Vaishnavi Shailesh Karanje
TE IT

For Vaishnavi Karanje, late August was filled with achievements, devotion, and celebrations. She prepared well for IAT-1, completed IBM training with certification, earned AI badges, and took on the role of Feedback and Grievance Admin in the Ladies Representative team. Beyond academics, she celebrated her best friend's birthday and visited Lalbaugcha Raja during Ganpati.

The latter half of August was productive and motivating for Rebecca Celine Sam. She cleared her driving test, prepared well for her first internal assessment, and was encouraged by the results. She was also appointed Assistant Graphics Head for the Allyn Girls Committee 2025-26, an opportunity to explore her creativity while building on past experience. This period boosted her confidence and enthusiasm for both academic and personal growth.

Rebecca Celine Sam
TE COMPS

The Second Edition of the August Newsletter celebrates the harmony of hard work, achievements, and festive joy. This month reflects not only academic focus and skill-building but also the strength of community and togetherness. Each story highlights consistency, creativity, and progress, reminding us that every effort contributes to a larger purpose. Here's to carrying this spirit of growth and celebration into the months ahead with renewed enthusiasm!

"The future belongs to those who believe in the beauty of their dreams."

– Eleanor Roosevelt